1 moviesdatabase.com or imdb.com

1.1 Rob Hartill <robh (at) IMDB.COM> exclaimed:

- Date: Fri, 6 Mar 1998 21:35:40 +0000

```
On Fri, 6 Mar 1998, Lincoln Stein wrote:

> Hi All,
>
> I'm looking for more mod_perl success stories like the one that Jeff > posted the other day.  They will be used for vignettes in an > introductory chapter of the book that Doug and I are writing.  If you > have a story you'd like to share (particularly one in which mod_perl > "defeats" one of its competitors) could you mail it to me or post it > to the list?  For the vignettes we need some sort of identifying > information, either along the lines of "a major Southwestern > University" or "Kulturbox company of Berlin, Germany".

We use mod_perl for just about everything and then some too; serving around 1.25 million pageviews per day. All database lookups are handled inside Apache via mod_perl. Each request also goes through several mod_perl handlers and is then reformated on the fly with mod_perl SSI to embed advertising banners and give different views of the site depending on the hostname used.

--
Rob Hartill                            Internet Movie Database (Ltd)
http://www.moviedatabase.com/   .. a site for sore eyes.

The Internet Movie Database (as we all know, a mod_perl driven site) won a 1997 Webby as the best Film site on the web.
```

Table of Contents: